Modern Slavery Act 2015: Slavery and human trafficking statement

The United Kingdom Modern Slavery Act 2015 (the "2015 Act") requires organisations who meet certain criteria to publish an annual statement outlining the steps taken by the organisation to ensure slavery and human trafficking is not taking place within the organisation or in any of its supply chains. Fieldlab is a not-for-profit creative studio, and our core purpose is the transformation of lives by creation, sharing and application of knowledge and artistic works; as such we are not required to provide a statement. However, Fieldlab is committed to the principles of the 2015 Act and to ensuring that there is no modern slavery or human trafficking in our organisation or in our supply chains. When entering into business contracts, we do so in accordance with our policies to ensure that our business relationships are conducted in an environmentally, socially and economically sustainable manner. To identify and mitigate risks, we carry out due diligence on new suppliers and as a creative enterprise seek to identify better and practicable processes in our procurement and business operations which will make a real difference in helping combat slavery and human trafficking. This statement is made pursuant to section 54(1) of the 2015 Act and constitutes Fieldlab's slavery and human trafficking statement.
